

diary of a MAD HUNGRY WOMAN

This blog is a food journal, my eating adventures mostly in and around Orange County, CA, but stretches to Los Angeles, San Diego and beyond. I am constantly searching for delicious food to eat and nothing is out of bounds, although sometimes it doesn't always end well, nevertheless, it is always an interesting journey

Posted on December 27, 2012

a farewell to 2012 with a year-end round-up

The Ranch seems to be one of those places where my friends and I go to celebrate something special. Early this year, I celebrated a friend's birthday here during restaurant week. Then, last month, I celebrated my birthday here with 11 of my friends for dinner. It was a fun-filled evening with delicious food and wine. I returned for a wine dinner a few nights later and that was an absolutely stunning pairing of food and wines. The Ranch remains one of my favorites in Orange County.

Copyright © Anita Lau: MadHungryWoman 2012. All Rights Reserved

Copyright © Anita Lau: MadHungryWoman 2008-2012. All Rights Reserved